(participants might need to arrive in the evening of the 21st)

Objective

In line with the Red Cross Red Crescent Movement Cash Peer Working Group (CPWG) strategy, the Movement is working to mainstream Cash and Voucher Assistance (CVA) within disaster response through skilled human resources and having adequate tools and systems in place.

This includes an advanced practical level training for CVA specialists, designed to:

- Complement the existing theory CVA trainings;
- Ensure participants are clear on the expectations and deliverables when designing and implementing CVA programmes;
- And, provide exposure and hands on experience using the Red Cross Red Crescent Movement Cash in Emergencies Toolkit.

About the training	Learning aim and objectives
This training will equip participants with the skills required to assess, design, implement and monitor CVA using the RCM Cash in Emergencies (CiE) toolkit and meeting RCM standards for cash transfer programming. Approach The training will be run using a ‘learning by doing’ approach, with very little formal ‘input’. The training will also give the opportunity for the participants to work within transversal teams according to the RCM model of teams that could operate during emergencies with key required profiles to implement CVA: technical cash profiles, finance profiles, system profiles, communication profiles etc.	Aim: To build confidence to deploy as a member of a cash team. Specific objectives: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Demonstrate general knowledge of Cash and Voucher Assistance and develop CVA response in a disaster scenario using assessment information and response analysis tools. 2. Design CVA programs using tools for set-up and implementation including Community Engagement and Accountability (CEA), working with service providers, distribution and encashment. 3. Include risk assessment, mitigation measures and cash monitoring process throughout the program.

Training Expectation

The performance of participants will be monitored throughout the training and discussed with the trainees through a confidential system of performance review, in line with the cash competency framework. Successful participation will mean admission to a register of cash specialists kept and coordinated by the IFRC Cash Team in Geneva for field deployments.
